

Thousands Of Trapped Japs Suffocate In Luzon Caves

By JAMES HUTCHESON
Manila, March 10 (AP) — Silent on Japanese reports that big Mindanao island has been invaded, Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today that several thousand Nipponese have been sealed up and suffocated in caves east of Manila by Yanks operating with phosphorus grenades, flamethrowers and demolition charges.

MacArthur's communique reported a second straight air attack with more than 100 tons of bombs on Zamboanga, Mindanao's biggest city on the southwest coast. But he offered no comment on enemy reports that troops landed there Friday under the guns of two bombarding task forces.

The successes of the Yanks east of Manila carried them past the first line of maze of caves and tunnels known as the Shimbun line, the most heavily fortified defenses encountered on Luzon.

Estimates of "several thousand" dead Japanese there probably pushed the foe's casualties, on Luzon, invaded January 9, to around 100,000.

Jap Plan Foiled
The forces of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita had laid careful plans to exact a fearful toll of Yanks in a frontal assault on the Shimbun line, stretching between Wawa and Antipolo, 14 miles east of Manila.

MacArthur said Jap plans for a Shimbun line frontal assault had been foiled by a systematic attack which doomed the Japanese to die in the caves "without taking any compensating toll from our troops."

First American artillery and plane attacks drove the Japanese into the depths. They were kept there by flame throwers and white phosphorous grenades. Thus covered, demolition squads planted explosives which sealed off the four or five lateral tunnels leading from each underground compartment. The 10-foot vertical shafts were closed with explosives.

DROP 1,300 TONS OF INCENDIARIES IN RAID ON TOKYO

By ELMONT WAITE
21st Bomber Command, Guam, March 10 (AP)—A "hellish sea of fire," touched off by the greatest raid ever made by Superfortresses, engulfed the heart of Tokyo today and added up to the Imperial palace grounds.

"It looked like the whole damn town was burning," said one airman returning this morning from the first mass night-time raid on the enemy capital.

More than 300 B-29's poured thousands of incendiaries on the city causing "50 times more damage" than the record February 25 raid which devastated 240 city blocks, said Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Power.

A Million Japs on Target
"The area below me was literally a sea of flame," Power reported after two hours over Tokyo. "It was the greatest show on earth."

A Japanese communique asserted fires broke out at the Imperial palace but were put out before 3 a. m. Previously Tokyo said flames reached the emperor's stables. The communique claimed all fires were under control by 8 a. m.

General Power told Maj. Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of the 21st Bomber Command, that one 500-block area was engulfed by flames.

An estimated 1,030,000 Japanese lived in the target area.

All Incendiaries
The B-29's dropped an estimated 1,300 tons of bombs—every bomb an incendiary—in highly inflammable, congested central Tokyo where targets were railroad stations, small factories not sufficiently valuable for precision bombing, and industrial workers' homes.

The greatest preceding land-based aerial bombing in the Pacific fired 240 Tokyo city blocks on 200 Superfortresses dropped their loads February 25. Total tonnage of that raid probably was little more than half of today's record, for which every Superfort carried a greater load than on any of the 11 preceding bombings of the enemy's capital.

Can Be Tripled
Today's raid, devastating as it was, can be tripled in strength if necessary, however.

Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad, chief of staff of the 20th Air Force, Washington, said fleets of "1,000 or more Superforts will be put over the Japanese homeland if that is necessary to win the war."

Senior officer of the raid, Power, piloted his own plane and remained over Tokyo to observe results. He told ground crewmen at the takeoff he would return at 10 a. m. He checked in at 10:01 to be greeted exultantly by both LeMay and Norstad.

Three court house workers were observing their respective birthdays today. They are Miss Viola Sachs, deputy register and recorder; M. T. Hartman, county agent, and Mrs. Martha B. McClell, deputy clerk of the courts.

MISS WARNER WILL CONDUCT SPEECH CLINICS

Miss Dorothy M. Warner, special education advisor for the county, announced today that three speech education workshops will be held for county teachers during March and April.

D. E. Morley, advisor in special education for the State Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, will conduct the sessions which will be held March 12, March 28 and April 3 in Glatfelter hall at Gettysburg college.

The meetings have been planned to study problems and remediation in speech education. Miss Warner said. She stated that at least one elementary and one secondary teacher from each of the consolidated centers should report for the training.

The first clinic on Monday evening will include a description of different types of speech defects potentially curable by classroom teachers and analyses of the difficulties. The second session March 28 will include a demonstration of sample analytical and corrective procedures and the use of diagnostic materials.

April 3 the meeting will concern correction work with some selected children who will be asked to report for their teachers. The teachers may consult Mr. Morley concerning procedures and techniques at that time.

"Although any teacher is invited to attend any of the meetings, attendance at all three meetings is highly desirable," Miss Warner said. "All teachers who have children at their homes or schools with pronounced speech defects, either articulatory or stuttering in nature should avail themselves of this help and specialized training."

All meetings will begin at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. There will be no charge for the special work.

Trap 20,000 Nazis In Yankee Pocket

By JAMES LONG
Paris, March 10 (AP)—Tank-supported German infantry struck at the 50-square-mile American bridgehead over the Rhine at Remagen today, but were stopped cold as more thousands of doughboys sped over the bridge in a race against Nazi columns moving up for battle.

Farther upstream, U. S. Third Army tanks smashed to within two miles of Coblenz. Some 20,000 Nazis were trapped northwest of that Rhine city by the juncture of the First and Third Armies.

A front dispatch said several hundred Germans buttressed by armor were halted in a thrust against the Rhine bridgehead, five miles deep and ten or more wide.

Decisive Battle Looms
The buildup of the First Army's wedge over-spreading highlands across the river from Remagen continued overnight with hundreds of tons of supplies hurried across the shell-threatened Ludendorff bridge along with thousands more troops.

German convoys, desperately using headlights in night travel, converged on the bridgehead, and a major, perhaps decisive, battle impended.

Yank Planes Form Canopy Over Rhine

By HENRY B. JAMESON
London, March 10 (AP)—Swarms of U. S. Ninth Air Force planes today kept a constant air canopy over American troops deepening their Remagen bridgehead across the Rhine.

As the planes repelled German airmen's attempts to hit the Ludendorff bridge—lifeline to the bridgehead area—Allied heavy bombers from Britain again hit communications behind enemy lines. The German radio reported that two waves of bombers approached western and southwestern Germany before 11 a. m.

Eighteen German planes were downed over the battlefield yesterday—14 by Ninth Air Force pilots and four by the RAF. Seven were knocked down as they tried to break through for a crack at the bridge and troops on the other side.

Berlin's Worst Raid
Ninth Air Force divebombers, supporting the British Tactical Air Force guarding Field Montgomery's forces fighting in the Wesel area, shot down 11 German planes.

Nine American and four RAF planes were lost.

Last night Berlin underwent its 238th attack of the war and its 18th in succession by RAF Mosquitos. The Air Ministry said it was the heaviest attack of the present series, during which the Mosquitos have dropped more than 1,200 tons of bombs on the Nazi capital.

Other Mosquitos struck road and rail targets in the Ruhr and as far east as Magdeburg.

The Berlow club will meet Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock with Mrs. Howard Schwartz and the York Springs club with Mrs. Jennie Gardner that evening at 7:30 o'clock. A meeting of the Hampton group will be held Tuesday evening with Mrs. George Jordan at 7:30 o'clock and the final meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at New Oxford at the home of Mrs. Gerald Orndorff.

Miss Adams will be in her office at the court house Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday mornings and all day on Thursday and Friday.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Forsythe, Gettysburg R. 2, announce the birth of a son at the Warner hospital this morning.

A daughter was born at the hospital this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Augusta Sanchez, Emmitsburg. The father is serving with the Army.

SERVING OVERSEAS

Pfc. Claude Klinedinst, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Klinedinst, York Springs R. 2, is serving with the Blackhawk regiment overseas.

"Nazis Have Lost"
But the initial German counter-lashes had failed, and so massive was U. S. power rolling over the bridge that a front correspondent declared "the Germans already have lost the race."

The Third Army's Fourth Armored Division seized Ruesenach, on a main road two miles northwest of Coblenz, a city of 80,000 population.

Farther northwest the Third and First Armies had linked at the Rhine, and were tightening a trap on 20,000 or more Nazis, the survivors of five or six divisions, holed up in the Eifel mountains northwest of Coblenz. Bonn, city of 101,000 on the Rhine, 14 miles southeast of Cologne, was in First Army hands.

Hold 150-Mile Front
On the north flank, British, Canadian, and American troops chewed the German pocket at Wesel on the Rhine down to a width of five miles and depth of three, capturing Veen and three other towns. Germans fought desperately in stubborn withdrawal back upon bridges still usable at Wesel.

Allied armies now held the whole Rhine bank for 150 miles from just north of Coblenz into Holland, save for the Wesel bend.

Reds Advance On Stettin

London, March 10 (AP)—Russian forces apparently have won some streets in Aldamm, the east-bank suburb of Stettin, and may have gained a foothold on the west side of the Dammescher lake just north of Berlin's Baltic port, Moscow dispatches reported today.

Stettin itself was under artillery fire for the first time, and the Russians also were lobbing shells into the defenses of Danzig, where the war started in 1939.

Aldamm is 3 1/2 miles east of Stettin on the east side of the Oder. Dammescher lake is the lagoon-like water 2 1/2 miles wide and ten miles long northeast of Stettin through which the Oder finds its way to the sea.

Four Troops Across Oder
"Aldamm was subjected to intense artillery and mortar fire and the Russians appeared to have some streets in this suburban town of Stettin," AP Correspondent Eddy Gilmore in Moscow reported.

"Soviet storm units which have been moving out into the Danmscher lake appeared to have won some places on the western bank under heavy artillery fire from guns firing from the eastern bank on Stoltzenhagen, Fraundorf and Zuelenow."

Russian troops by German account today were pouring reinforcements across the Oder river on both sides of embattled Kuestrin, and Moscow said other Red Army units had plunged to the outskirts of both Stettin and Danzig. The Paris radio early today said one of three Russian columns driving on Danzig had broken into the city and street fighting was underway.

21st Bomber Command, Guam, March 10 (AP)—A "hellish sea of fire" touched off by the greatest raid ever made by Superfortresses, engulfed the heart of Tokyo today and eddied up to the imperial palace grounds.

MISS WARNER WILL CONDUCT SPEECH CLINICS

Miss Dorothy M. Warner, special education advisor for the county, announced today that three speech education workshops will be held for county teachers during March and April.

D. E. Morley, advisor in special education for the State Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, will conduct the sessions which will be held March 12, March 28 and April 3 in Glatfelter hall at Gettysburg college.

The meetings have been planned to study problems and remediation in speech education, Miss Warner said. She stated that at least one elementary and one secondary teacher from each of the consolidated centers should report for the training.

The first clinic on Monday evening will include a description of different types of speech defects potentially curable by classroom teachers and analyses of the difficulties. The second session March 28 will include a demonstration of sample analytical and corrective procedures and the use of diagnostic materials.

April 3 the meeting will concern correction work with some selected children who will be asked to report for their teachers. The teachers may consult Mr. Morley concerning procedures and techniques at that time.

"Although any teacher is invited to attend any of the meetings, attendance at all three meetings is highly desirable," Miss Warner said. "All teachers who have children in their rooms or schools with pronounced speech defects, either articulatory or stuttering in nature should avail themselves of this helpful and specialized training."

All meetings will begin at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. There will be no charge for the special work.

Trap 20,000 Nazis In Yankee Pocket

Paris, March 10 (AP)—Tank-supported German infantry struck at the 50-square-mile American bridgehead over the Rhine at Remagen today, but were stopped cold as more thousands of doughboys sped over the bridge in a race against Nazi columns moving up for battle.

Farther upstream, U. S. Third Army tanks smashed to within two miles of Coblenz. Some 20,000 Nazis were trapped northwest of that Rhine city by the juncture of the First and Third Armies.

A front dispatch said several hundred Germans buttressed by armor were halted in a thrust against the Rhine bridgehead, five miles deep and ten or more wide.

Decisive Battle Looms

The buildup of the First Army's wedge over-spreading highlands across the river from Remagen continued overnight with hundreds of tons of supplies hurried across the shell-threatened Ludendorff bridge along with thousands more troops.

German convoys, desperately using headlights in night travel, converged on the bridgehead, and a major, perhaps decisive, battle impended.

Yank Planes Form Canopy Over Rhine

By HENRY B. JAMESON
London, March 10 (AP)—Swarms of U. S. Ninth Air Force planes today kept a constant air canopy over American troops deepening their Remagen bridgehead across the Rhine.

As the planes repelled German airmen's attempts to hit the Ludendorff bridge—lifeline to the bridgehead area—Allied heavy bombers from Britain again hit communications behind enemy lines. The German radio reported that two waves of bombers approached western and southwestern Germany before 11 a. m.

Eighteen German planes were downed over the battlefield yesterday—14 by Ninth Air Force pilots and four by the RAF. Seven were knocked down as they tried to break through for a crack at the bridge and troops on the other side.

Berlin's Worst Raid
Ninth Air Force divebombers, supporting the British Tactical Air Force guarding Field Montgomery's forces fighting in the Wesel area, shot down 11 German planes.

Nine American and four RAF planes were lost.

Last night Berlin underwent its 238th attack of the war and its 18th in succession by RAF Mosquitos. The Air Ministry said it was the heaviest attack of the present series, during which the Mosquitos have dropped more than 1,200 tons of bombs on the Nazi capital.

Other Mosquitos struck road and rail targets in the Ruhr and as far east as Magdeburg.

SPECULATES ON EARLY END FOR WAR IN EUROPE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)
The American First Army's sensational crossing of the Rhine has set homefront temperatures to fluctuating violently again and everybody wants to know how soon the war will be over.

Well, in these swiftly changing days the smart prophet hides his light under a bushel. So while cheerfully admitting that great optimism is warranted, I'm sticking to a statement I made in this column months ago. It was this:

I don't believe the Germans can maintain organized resistance very long, once the western Allies and the Moscovites are across the Rhine and the Oder rivers respectively in great force.

Japs Aren't Finished
Since these main defensive barriers already have been broken, that condition will be fulfilled speedily. The Russians are across the Oder in several places, and Eisenhower is pouring a veritable flood of men and material through his new bridgehead. The Hitlerites are so vastly outnumbered on both fronts, and so inferior in air-power and in equipment of all sorts, that they can't withstand the pressure which is about to be clamped upon them. Their organized resistance soon must collapse, and that will mean the virtual end of the war, for we can discount any guerrilla activities as of comparatively minor consequence.

However, there's another and serious aspect to this question of how soon the war will end. What do we mean by "the" war? I'm afraid too many folks are inclined to think of "the" war in terms of Europe.

That's a terrible mistake. The Hitlerian conflict is only one section of our war. When we've smashed Nazism we still have the Japanese to beat. This means that a great many of our fighting forces who now are in Europe will have to continue in service until the job is done in the Orient. That's not a happy thought, but it's the best that we get firmly in mind, and for two reasons: (1) To save ourselves disappointment, and (2) to ensure that the war in the Pacific gets every ounce of our support.

Japs Plan Future War
We've come to look upon Hitler as the arch-devil of our time—and he undoubtedly is entitled to that brand. However, Japan presents a danger potentially as great as the threat of enslavement held over Europe by Hitler.

The Japs are imbued with all the aggression and brutality of Prussianism, plus barbarism. They themselves have made it quite clear that their scheme is to bring all Asia under their domination and set it against the western world—the horrible idea of east in conflict with the west.

We know from well-informed sources that already the Japs—admitting to themselves the probability of their defeat in the present war—are planning another attack on America twenty-five years hence. They would profit by their military lessons in the present conflict.

So we won't have freed the world from danger when we've put a rope about Hitler's neck. The Japanese militarists must follow the Prussians out.

LAST TWO JAPS
SPLIT AS YANKS REACH BEACHES

By ELMONT WAITE
United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 10 (AP)—Elements of the Third Marine Division have driven forward against "very stiff" enemy resistance to reach the northeast beaches of Iwo Island, splitting enemy forces which continue to hold strong-points tenaciously but with diminishing vigor, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The drive for the beaches was completed yesterday afternoon by the Marines and the area widened in fighting up to noon today. Heavy artillery preparation softened up enemy positions for the attack while feet units and two-based aircraft gave support during the drive.

Step Infiltration
Fourth Division Marines on the right of the American lines had previously repulsed large scale infiltration attempts by the Japanese, killing 564 of the enemy while fighting off a desperate enemy attack which was supported by very heavy mortar and sniper fire. "Resistance during the morning appeared to be diminishing, although the enemy was holding prepared strongpoints tenaciously and snipers were active," Nimitz reported.

The Fifth Division on the northwestern beach is apparently now within 1,100 yards of Kitano Point, Iwo's northern tip.

The Third Division breakthrough was on the northeastern beach, about 2,000 yards from Kitano. A small group of enemy aircraft approached the American positions early yesterday morning but retired without attacking. The Tokyo radio yesterday said the attackers had "heavily hit" the Americans.

Today's communique was the first since Friday.

However, there's another and serious aspect to this question of how soon the war will end. What do we mean by "the war"? I'm afraid too many folks are inclined to think of "the" war in terms of Europe.

That's a terrible mistake. The Hitlerian conflict is only one section of our war. When we've smashed Nazism we still have the Japanese to beat. This means that a great many of our fighting forces who now are in Europe will have to continue in service until the job is done in the Orient. That's not a happy thought, but it's best that we get it firmly in mind, and for two reasons: (1) To save ourselves disappointment, and (2) to ensure that the war in the Pacific gets every ounce of our support.

Japs Plan Future War

We've come to look upon Hitler as the arch-devil of our time—and he undoubtedly is entitled to that brand. However, Japan presents a danger potentially as great as the threat of enslavement held over Europe by Hitler.

The Japs are imbued with all the aggression and brutality of Prussianism, plus barbarism. They themselves have made it quite clear that their scheme is to bring all Asia under their domination and set it against the western world—the horrible idea of east in conflict with the west.

We know from well-informed sources that already the Japs—admitting to themselves the probability of their defeat in the present war—are planning another attack on America twenty-five years hence. They would profit by their military lessons in the present conflict.

So we won't have freed the world from danger when we've put a rope about Hitler's neck. The Japanese militarists must follow the Prussians out.

This year the celebration will take the form of a banquet at 6:30 o'clock at which all white-collar workers in the YWCA will pledge themselves to work closely during the coming twelve months for the establishment of an international organization for the better ordering of the inter-dependent life of nations for the preservation of peace with justice and economic security and the furtherance of the general good-will of all people.

Pete Thistle, 120, Coast Guard's third champion, advanced on a bye.

Ohio Sergeant Is First Across Rhine

On The Rhine Bridgehead, March 10 (AP)—A 34-year-old Ohio sergeant has been singled out as the man first across the Rhine in the daring establishment of the U. S. First Army's bridgehead.

Without detracting glory from other soldiers in the history-making coup, Brig. Gen. William M. Hodge, of Lexington, Mo., whose armored forces took the Remagen bridge, named Sgt. Alexander A. Drabik, butcher boy of Holland, Ohio, as the outstanding hero of the day.

Hodge said yesterday a careful check disclosed Drabik actually was the first American to step on the east bank of the river, in the forefront of ten riflemen shooting as they ran in a wild dash which so astounded the Germans they failed to blow up the vital structure.

SAYS PROJECTS
WON'T BE READY

Washington, March 10 (AP)—Pennsylvania cities planning 1,390 "necessary" postwar works projects to cushion unemployment will have only 111 of them ready for construction when the war ends unless Congress provides money now for advance planning, Sen. Myers (D-Pa.) reports.

Myers appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee to urge restoration of the $75,000,000 fund recommended by the budget bureau for advances to municipalities for planning work now on postwar projects. The House pared this figure down to $5,000,000.

Similar testimony has been given the Senate committee by Mayor Cornelius Scully of Pittsburgh, and the mayors of other Pennsylvania communities have sent telegrams reporting their need for aid in order to have their projects ready to go into construction when war production slackens.

The money for advance planning would ultimately be repaid by the municipalities on all projects which actually are constructed.

"Unfortunately, the cities have no funds with which to prepare the plans and blueprints," Myers said. "Furthermore, they have a very ineffective way of raising the money, that is by a bond issue."

LAST TWO JAPS SPLIT AS YANKS REACH BEACHES

By ELMONT WAITE

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 10 (AP)—Elements of the Third Marine Division have driven forward against "very stiff" enemy resistance to reach the northeast beaches of Iwo Island, splitting enemy forces which continue to hold strong-points tenaciously but with diminishing vigor, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The drive for the beaches was completed yesterday afternoon by the Marines and the area widened in fighting up to noon today. Heavy artillery preparation softened up enemy positions for the attack while fleet units and Iwo-based aircraft gave support during the drive.

Stop Infiltration

Fourth Division Marines on the right of the American lines had previously repulsed large scale infiltration attempts by the Japanese, killing 564 of the enemy while fighting off a desperate enemy attack which was supported by very heavy mortar and sniper fire. "Resistance during the morning appeared to be diminishing, although the enemy was holding prepared strong-points tenaciously and snipers were active," Nimitz reported.

The Fifth Division on the northwestern beach is apparently now within 1,100 yards of Kitano Point, Iwo's northern tip.

The Third Division breakthrough was on the northeastern beach, about 2,000 yards from Kitano.

A small group of enemy aircraft approached the American positions early yesterday morning but retired without attacking. The Tokyo radio yesterday said the attackers had "heavily hit" the Americans.

Today's communique was the first since Friday.

Urge Reorganization Of Teacher Colleges

Harrisburg, March 10 (AP)—The Pennsylvania post war planning commission today recommended reorganization of the State Teachers college system.

In order that plants and facilities be used to their full efficiency, the agency proposed to Governor Martin that those not needed for teacher education purposes be used for other state services in educational and other fields.

The commission also expressed belief advantages would result from unified control and management of the colleges and recommended a plan providing for a single state board charged with responsibility of their general control. The State Council of Education was suggested for the job.

"In view of the over-all enrollment picture relating to these institutions," said the commission, "plant expansion is not recommended."

TROJANS DOWN COLUMBIA FOR SECTION TITLE

Harrisburg, March 10 (AP)—With eight district champions in class A and four in class B already selected the long trail that leads to a place in the annual Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association's basketball tournament nears its end.

Tonight the last three class A titles will be decided as Pottstown meets Radnor in District One at Villanova; Beaver Falls clashes with Donora in District Seven at McKeesport; and Allentown plays weatherly in District Eleven at Rockne Memorial hall.

Two additional class B finalists will be named as Camp Hill tackles Susquehanna in District Three at Steelton; and Conneautville engages West Middlesex in District Ten at Thiel college, Greenville.

A trio of newcomers to state-wide competition emerged from last night's class A games as Sharpville, Shamokin and Langley took their places alongside such familiar teams as Chambersburg, Plymouth, Somerset, Huntingdon and Bradford.

Sharpville won District Ten honors by turning back Erie Tech, 49-38, and now faces Bradford, triumphant over Brookville in District Nine, 52-28.

Shamokin continued its winning streak by defeating Sayre in District Four, 43-30, and Langley jolted the Dopers by eliminating Westinghouse from District Eight, 45-39.

Keeping pace with unbeaten Plymouth and Shamokin, the fast stepping Huntingdon five became the third undefeated team to enter the P.I.A.A. competition when Johnstown was jolted, 27-18.

Now Huntingdon plays Somerset, winner of District Five laurels over Bedford, 33-27.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, March 10 (AP)—As an aftermath of the Brooklyn basketball scandal, bills have been introduced in the legislatures of New York, Massachusetts, California and Michigan—and maybe some other states—putting virtually all sports under control of state commissions. . . . Whether this would bring improvement is debatable, but it is noteworthy that the gambling "evil" never has been eliminated from commission-controlled boxing.

Only recently New Orleans sports scribes called upon the boxing commission to "break up some of the practice of disgruntled gamblers who cause a scene whenever they lose a bet because of a close decision."

Apparently it doesn't matter so much where control of sports is placed as how good a job is done by those who exercise control.

NO DOUBT AT ALL
Farrar "Red" Vickery, end on Georgia's 1942 Rose bowl football team, went through three Pacific invasions with the Marines. At Salpan he was so badly injured that a steel plate was used on one foot to enable him to walk. . . . While undergoing treatment, Red remarked: "Sure I'll play football again."

Sgt. Johnny Schroyer, 1942 Penn State freshman star, lost a leg at Anzio. While at Atlantic City, learning to use an artificial limb before returning to college, Johnny wrote Coach Bob Higgins: "I don't know whether I'll be able to stand and watch the other fellows play ball, but I guess I had to stop playing sometime."

SHORTS AND SHELLS
Eddie "Flash" Bryant, who used to catch Bill Dudley's passes at the U of Virginia and then starred for North Carolina as a Marine trainee, has signed with the Boston Yanks for next fall. He holds a medical discharge. . . . When Rocky Graziano stiffened Billy Arnold last night, they had to give Whitey Binstein, Rocky's trainer, a whiff of smelling salts. . . . Looked to us like very bad judgment on the part of Referee Frank Fullam in not stopping the fight sooner—and good judgment on the part of Vice President Harry Truman in congratulating Tony Janaro for his semi-final win. . . . The Dodgers haven't made up their spring training brochures or printed press passes because they want to see what happens before they spend dough.

PICK RAFFERTY TO BEAT HAEGG

New York, March 10 (AP)—There's every indication that gaunt Gunder Haegg will meet the same fate that three other European runners encountered in their efforts to defeat Americans in the famed Columbian mile at the K. of C. meet in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Haegg, in this country nine days since his stormy 23-day crossing of the Atlantic, is suffering from a muscular condition that makes it improbable he will be able to avenge his defeat of a week ago when four native runners steamed by him at the IC-4A games.

"My legs ache and I do not believe that I can beat Jim Rafferty yet," said the Swede swiftly after his final practice romp in Central Park.

If Haegg is defeated he will suffer the same fate that befell Paavo Nurmi of Finland in 1925; Edwin Wide of Sweden in 1927 and Otto Peltzer of Germany in 1928.

Nurmi became ill the night of the 1925 race and didn't even start while Lloyd Hahn beat out Wide by a single step in 4:12.2. Both Hahn and Ray Conger finished far ahead of the soundly beaten Peltzer in the 1928 competition.

Because of the throbbing in his legs, Haegg did all his training on the board oval at New York university.

First Steps With Tomatoes
The home vegetable grower often finds it difficult to reduce tomato growing advice to small-scale, easy-to-understand terms which he can translate into actual practice. Therefore, the following recommendations are intended mainly to help Victory Gardeners and small farmers in starting this important crop.

First, give tomatoes a deeply fertile, well drained loam which contains an abundance of moisture-holding organic matter. Avoid shallow and hard soils. If manure is procurable, turn under a liberal application at least a few weeks before time to set out the plants. A few days before transplanting time, broadcast and work into the top soil an application of complete fertilizer at rates of 500 and 1,000 pounds per acre. Do not use fresh stable manure or fertilizers containing a high percentage of nitrogen for this vegetable.

If but a few plants are needed and they are purchased from a commercial source, demand knowledge that the seed is of a guaranteed variety and is free from seed-borne diseases. If at all practicable, grow plants at home, sowing seed at once for early plants in a window box or sunny coldframe.

Disinfect seed by placing it in a loose cheesecloth bag and immersing it for five minutes in a 1.2000 solution of corrosive sublimate, prepared by dissolving one standard tablet in two pints of water. First dissolve the tablet in a small quantity of hot water and then dilute to the advised strength by adding cool or cold water. Remove seed from the solution and rinse it for 15 minutes in cold running water. Dry before sowing.

Damping-off is prevented by mixing 8 ounces of a 6-per cent formaldehyde dust with each bushel of plant bed soil before seed is sown. Water liberally at once after seeding.

Guard children, animals and birds from corrosive sublimate by destroying portions remaining. Mix and handle this chemical in glass or earthenware vessels, never in metal. It is a deadly poison and must be employed with care.

Seeding tomato plants should not be allowed to crowd in the bed. As soon as true leaves appear, shift the tiny seedlings to individual pots or plant beds and thereafter keep them thriving in a roomy coldframe until soil and weather conditions permit transplanting to their growing site. It may be necessary to afford transplants some protection on threatening nights.

Advise Stakes
Space plants 3 to 3½ feet apart in rows 3 to 4 feet wide. Train plants to individual stakes and keep them pruned to single stems by removing suckers which appear frequently at the leaf axils.

Tomato wilt cannot be cured by spraying but must be prevented by use of disease-free seed sown in sterilized soil and grown where tomatoes have not been raised for several years. The Marglobe, Pritchard and Break O'Day varieties are particularly resistant to wilt.

Blossom-end rot is caused chiefly by excess foliage robbing the fruits of needed moisture. Mulch plants in dry weather with vegetation and strip off the lower leaves to prevent this rot.

The button they sewed on Tom's shirt 9 times

YOU know Tom, although perhaps you call him by another name. A shy, quiet boy who has suddenly become a man in the midst of war. Until he went into the Army Tom had never been away from home. But now he's three thousand miles from Mom and Dad... and a boy can become mighty lonely, even in an army of millions.

But here in the jungle, as though by some miracle, a Red Cross club has been established. And inside are girls... smiling, wholesome American girls who speak your language and are so much like sis... or the girl next door.

Tom knows that among a score of heart-warming jobs these Red Cross girls perform is the simple, homey act of helping a GI sew on buttons. So Tom has torn a button from his shirt and a Red Cross girl is sewing it on. And a little later Tom will tear off that same button again. In all (and this is an actual case), that button was sewed on a total of nine times!

The girls know, and smile indulgently. A little thing, yes, but such little, friendly services can give a big lift to the spirits of a lonely service man far away from home.

This is the only appeal the Red Cross will make to you this year. How much pain and suffering and loneliness the Red Cross will alleviate depends on you. For the Red Cross is entirely dependent upon your contributions. The task is greater today than ever. Won't you give as much as you can in this great humanitarian cause?

TROJANS DOWN COLUMBIA FOR SECTION TITLE

Harrisburg, March 10 (AP)—With eight district champions in class A and four in class B already selected the long trail that leads to a place in the annual Pennsylvania interscholastic athletic association's basketball tournament nears its end.

Tonight the last three class A titles will be decided as Pottstown meets Radnor in District One at Villanova; Beaver Falls clashes with Donora in District Seven at McKeesport; and Allentown plays weatherly in District Eleven at Rockne Memorial hall.

Two additional class B finalists will be named as Camp Hill tackles Susquehanna in District Three at Steelton; and Conneautville engages West Middlesex in District Ten at Tule college, Greenville.

A trio of newcomers to state-wide competition emerged from last night's class A games as Sharpville, Shamokin and Langley took their places alongside such familiar teams as Chambersburg, Plymouth, Somerset, Huntingdon and Bradford.

Sharpville won District Ten honors by turning back Erie Tech, 49-38, and now faces Bradford, triumphant over Brookville in District Nine, 52-28.

Shamokin continued its winning streak by defeating Sayre in District Four, 43-30, and Langley joined the Dopesters by eliminating Westinghouse from District Eight, 45-39.

Keeping pace with unbeaten Plymouth and Shamokin, the fast stepping Huntingdon five became the third undefeated team to enter the P.I.A.A. competition when Johnstown was joined, 27-18.

Huntingdon plays Somerset, winner of District Five laurels over Bedford, 33-27.

Chambersburg, defending champion in District Three had no trouble getting past Columbia, 54-36, and next Tuesday meets the winner of the Allentown-Weatherly game in the first of the P.I.A.A. classics.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 10 (AP)—As an aftermath of the Brooklyn basketball scandal, bills have been introduced in the legislatures of New York, Massachusetts, California and Michigan—and maybe some other states—putting virtually all sports under control of state commissions. . . . Whether this would bring improvement is debatable, but it is noteworthy that the gambling

"evil" never has been eliminated from commission-controlled boxing.

Only recently New Orleans

sports scribes called upon the boxing commission to "break up some of the practice of disgruntled gamblers who cause a scene whenever they lose a bet because of a close decision." . . . Apparently it doesn't matter so much where control of sports is placed as how good a job is done by those who exercise control.

NO DOUBT AT ALL

Farrar "Red" Vickery, end on

Georgia's 1942 Rose bowl football team, went through three Pacific invasions with the Marines. At Saipan he was so badly injured that a steel plate was used on one foot to enable him to walk. . . . While undergoing treatment, Red remarked: "Sure I'll play football again." . . . Sgt. Johnny Schroyer,

1942 Penn State freshman star, lost a leg at Anzio. While at Atlantic City, learning to use an artificial limb before returning to college,

Johnny wrote Coach Bob Higgins:

"I don't know whether I'll be able to stand and watch the other fellows play ball, but I guess I had to stop playing sometime."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Eddie "Flash" Bryant, who used to catch Bill Dudley's passes at the U. of Virginia and then starred for

North Carolina as a Marine trainee, has signed with the Boston Yanks for next fall. He holds a medical discharge. . . . When Rocky Grazi-ano stiffened Billy Arnold last night,

they had to give Whitey Binstein,

Rocky's trainer, a whiff of smelling salts. . . . Looked to us like very bad judgment on the part of Referee

Frank Fullam in not stopping the fight sooner—and good judgment on the part of Vice President Harry dough.

How To Control White Grubs

White grubs cannot be combatted by poisons and similar meaasures. They must be reduced by careful management of infested soils. Every gardener and farmer should have a copy of our control instructions for a guide around the year and particularly from now until late fall. Merely send a 3-cent stamp with name and address for your free copy. If you have any insect problems, write

PICK RAFFERTY TO BEAT HAEGG

New York, March 10 (AP)—

There's every indication that gaunt

Gunder Haegg will meet the same fate that three other European runners encountered in their efforts to defeat Americans in the famed Columbian mile at the K. of C. meet in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Haegg, in this country nine days since his stormy 23-day crossing of the Atlantic, is suffering from a muscular condition that makes it improbable he will be able to avenge his defeat of a week ago when four native runners steamed by him at the IC-4A games.

"My legs ache and I do not believe that I can beat Jim Rafferty yet," said the Swede swiftly after his final practice romp in Central Park.

If Haegg is defeated he will suffer

the same fate that befell Paavo

Nurmi of Finland in 1925; Edwin

Wide of Sweden in 1927 and Otto

Peltzer of Germany in 1928.

Nurmi became ill the night of the 1925 race and didn't even start while

Lloyd Hahn beat out Wide by a single step in 4:12.2. Both Hahn and Ray Conger finished far ahead of the soundly beaten Peltzer in the 1928 competition.

Because of the throbbing in his legs, Haegg did all his training on the board oval at New York university.

FACES ERRORS MAKE

Wouldn't it be fine if, whenever we made a bad error (and really aren't all errors bad?), we could look it squarely in the face, and have that face indelibly before us if ever again it approached us?

A man cheated me once—a man with a face that I trusted. He tried to do the same thing again, but I remembered that face! Errors tie themselves to our memory, however, in many ways, which is fortunate. This helps us not to make the same one "twist," as Josh Billings used to say.

Errors are useful things, nevertheless. They teach us—and they often punish us severely, which makes us humble and thoughtful. There wouldn't be much progress without a great many errors. Each bad step taken guides us to the right one. We must ever keep this in mind. Were it not for the multitude of mistakes made during this tragic war, we would not now be so near to Victory!

It's the repeated errors that we make, learning nothing from any of them, that demoralize us, and leave us floundering and often helpless during grave emergencies. He who is alert, quick to dismiss his mistake, taking it as a lesson with him, is the leader and one of character.

Perhaps errors do have imaginary faces, after all, for when the same one steps us in our tracks, we seem to recognize it—fortunately.

People who never make mistakes somehow never seem to make anything. Men of action and vision climb over their mistakes and errors and leave them behind. Or they bury them and build on top of them!

Recognizing our own proneness to make errors, we should have great charity for those about us who make them. Let us daily resolve to forget our errors—and get going! How much there always is ahead—to do.

It's smart to be safe but there's room for doubt about it being safe to be smart.

How Are the Lines?

My recent mention of the new grain-like substance that cleans the garage floor brought some interesting reactions. One raised the question as to what happens to some of the grease and oil that doesn't drop directly to the floor. What happens, for instance, when oil settles on the hydraulic brake lines which are usually made of natural or reclaimed rubber? Doesn't mineral oil deteriorate such rubber? The answer is an emphatic "yes." Right now every motorist ought to check over the lines for just such a possibility, for service men are reporting an unusual number of lines in dangerous shape.

Incidentally, much brake trouble is due to use of lines that are longer than necessary. This results in too much flex, with a good likelihood of an eventual leak.

They Have a Reason

The idea that a backfire through the carburetor just is a freak situation unworthy of investigation bears questioning. A backfire may be due to an irregularity in timing, or to a carburetor condition. One very likely cause is a poor seating intake valve. When combustion takes place the mixture through the intake is also fired. This could also be due to a weak valve spring not closing its valve tightly. Don't confuse backfiring with after-firing. The latter is an explosion in the exhaust system. It, too, indicates that all is not well. A lean mixture, failure of the spark plugs when the throttle is closed to idling position on a downgrade, an over-rich mixture, ignition irregularities, and valve troubles all add up to after-firing.

Making Wrong Ones Fit

Service men tell me that they are succeeding in effecting a lot of good jobs where right hand parts are needed, and left hand ones are available only, or vice versa. In the case of front shock absorbers parts departments have been plagued with the situation of having too many of one kind, but with some slight changes in the arms and brackets it has been possible on some of the popular makes to fit a right hand unit where a left hand one should be, or vice versa. Remember this when you seem to be up against it for one or the other of the front shocks.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"Skimming through a book the other night I began to think that in these days probably a lot of motorists have to do the same thing with their job of maintaining the car. Considering everything that ought to be done to a car to keep it tip top the average fellow would be licked before he started if he didn't do a bit of skimming. But the trick is to know how.

"Some owners skip over the meat and fuss with the frills. I had to spend more time than I could afford the other day cleaning out a fuel filter for a chap who insisted that this was important. I could see that there wasn't any dirt in the bowl and the chances were against any water being in it. Meanwhile we lost a half hour that might better have been devoted to checking over the brake shoe clearances because there were plain signs of too much pedal play. Or I might have re-checked the ignition timing. The engine was late, and wasting gas."

More Than Plate Job

There's more to clutch wear than just the lining, so if a service man advises a clutch job and you put it off on theory that you won't have to buy more than a new plate anyway, don't be lured into some needless expense. Clutch springs may need to be replaced because of their uneven pressure which is due, in turn, too their being overheated. Damage may include a scored throwout bearing and badly worn clutch fingers.

Remember there is no adjustment for the modern clutch except the free play position as determined by the pedal. Unless the pedal is adjusted to have about an inch free before the clutch starts to disengage the plate will wear excessively.

Help From The Past

Reading through an old book on cars I came across an interesting bit of advice on the ever timely subject of how to avoid skidding. The book, effectively enough, calls it slipping. The trick is to maintain the car in approximately its original line of movement. Says the 1911 book in its currently useful way: "Thus, if the front wheels be steered in the direction in which the rear wheels are skidding, the tendency of the vehicle is to stay parallel to its original line of movement, ready to resume as the skidding terminates."

The Motor Primer

Just what happens when you press on the clutch pedal is something

THREE FULL YEARS before any other company, B.F. Goodrich sold tires made with synthetic rubber to American car owners. The experience gained in those three extra years is reflected in the performance of today's synthetic B. F. Goodrich Silvertown.

This tire has already proved itself in service totaling BILLIONS of miles. Satisfied users say it seems at least as good as a pre-war tire. So if you need new tires, drive in. Perhaps you're eligible for new B. F. Goodrich Silvertowns—today's extra value in tires!

that may not be entirely clear. If you picture some sort of break in the connection between engine and transmission you are correct in basic principle, but perhaps it would be clearer to you to first visualize the clutch as consisting of a driven plate sandwiched in between the rear face of the flywheel and a pressure plate. Springs on the latter allow it to press against the driven plate thus making the whole unit revolve with the engine when the clutch pedal is up. Press the pedal down and the pressure plate is drawn back away from the driven plate. The latter then is free to float between the flywheel and pressure plate. This driven plate is connected at all times with the shaft which runs through the transmission. When it stops, the transmission clutch gear and counter shaft gears also stop.

Has the engine lost compression? do you feel that it is getting decrepit? Are you inclined to assume that you are stuck with an ailing power plant for the duration? If so, better get to work on the reasons why compression drops. That will quickly lead to an understanding of how to boost it again.

A sticking intake valve, or a pitted, corroded exhaust valve, will invite compression leakage. The same for weak valve springs. Among other things check into the situation at the head gasket. Even a worn or scored thread in a spark plug opening should be considered. One simple thing that is easily corrected is having too little valve tappet clearance, a situation that forces the valves to seat poorly when they heat up. This is likely to be the answer if you notice that the engine lacks power only when warming up on hills.

Car Cleaning Hint

If you do not enjoy the comforts of a garage with running hot and cold water don't feel that because you can't go over the hood and fenders with a chamois you have to leave spots to mar the car's appearance. A simple trick is to dust the spotted parts lightly with a piece of rayon and then, blowing your breath on a small area at a time, wipe off the surface with a soft polishing cloth. Your breath adds just the right amount of moisture.

Q. Are all pressure relief valves or regulators adjustable? S. M.

A. No. Some are equipped with a screw for adjusting. Others have shims. Still others are not adjustable. In this last type the spring must be replaced.

Q. I plan to replace the main bearings of my engine. Is it necessary to take off the timing chain cover to do this? Wm. L. M.

A. Yes; but much more. Take the engine out of the chassis. Then, in the order given, remove the oil pan, oil suction pipe, crank-shaft pulley, timing case cover and the screw which fastens the case to the front gasket oil seal.

Q. The choke valve doesn't close (Please Turn to Page 5)

Second Marriage

By EVELYN MURRAY CAMPBELL

YESTERDAY: Nothing mattered now to Cynthia but Carey. Home, children, business were things in her past. Carey was the present and future. Cynthia is startled however, when Carey asks where shall they live. She had thought to fit him into her life, not hers into his. For the moment the problem is passed off as Carey shrugs, "All that will take care of itself."

Chapter 6

Four days before Cynthia's holiday was to end Anne got a telegram calling her back to Chicago. She was half annoyed, half pleased.

"It's no use to keep this place open." She was packing all her clothes pretending to be sorry. "It just isn't my summer in Wisconsin."

"Anne, I owe you the loveliest summer I ever had."

Anne burst out laughing. "What did I tell you? I love that. But in a way perhaps you do. So I'll put in my first claim now. Could you possibly close the cottage so that I wouldn't have to come back to this deadly place?"

Cynthia could and would. Later, she and Carey took Anne to the train as they had done before. When her handkerchief fluttered its final farewell and the pines took over the scene, Carey turned to her and said:

"Shall we get married before dinner or afterward?"

They looked at each other and knew that they could not bear to part again even for a little while.

An hour later they were Mr. and Mrs. Carey Winslow.

"And now—"

His ring was on her finger, only a cheap little ring from the general store, but Cynthia thought it was beautiful. The one she had worn so long was white gold and was in her bag. It would belong to Vera.

The sun was low and a cool breath came from the shimmering lake. The island looked like something dropped and lodged against a wave. There was a boat.

"Shall we go over?" he asked very simply and she nodded. There could be no other place where they would be so alone.

He brought blankets from a cache in the rocks and she knew for the first time that he had slept on the island sometimes. It was all in the same casual way as if having her there was the end of a long day.

There were some stores left from breakfasts and they ate with paper plates on their knees and the fire scorched their faces. But now it was not fun; it was life.

Then suddenly it was night in the way night comes to a lake in the trees. The tarpaulin was taut over their heads and the fire went to embers at their feet.

Carey held her tightly in his arms and she hid her face in the pine pillow and presently they slept.

Cynthia wore a blue handkerchief tied peasant fashion under her chin and her nose felt like a ripe plum and probably looked worse, she thought ruefully Carey needed a shave and everything that went with it. The car was white with dust inside and out and suddenly the super heated air was touched by the salt chill of the ocean and there it was before them glimmering blue and white capped through the trees.

She leaned forward breathless. "We're home, Carey. Turn at the third corner from this."

It had been gay adventure driving back from the lake. The long, grilling days with heat and dust and grinding upgrades! nights at roadside camps, meals snatched anywhere, any time, had been the sum total of their return but it was all in the dream where Cynthia lived.

Carey took it for granted that she would accept hardship and like Vera would have taken it, she thought. He made nothing of her scorched skin and aching back, as if those things would vanish with a night of sleep. So she took it and the joy of being his companion more than paid the price of the cross country trip in July.

But with the first sea breeze and the sight of her house, the submerged Cynthia came into being and her heart leaped and climbed remorselessly into her throat. The moment she had refused to face was facing her now.

"Carey!" she was panicky, wanting to clutch at him and ashamed in the peaceful sunlight. "I've been wrong. I should have told them."

He turned into the driveway behind another bright little car that usurped the middle of it arrogantly. His slacks were grease daubed from a bout with the motor, he was sunburned and looked like a Roman.

"Why?"

That was Carey's way. He could never see why people should interfere with one another. When she had spoken of "surprising" her family he had merely grinned and let her go without argument.

It was already too late to regret the surprise. Peter was on the lawn, staring blankly at the strange car, not recognizing his mother as a gypsy but dimly sensing her through the disguise. He began yelping for Maud, for Edris.

Cynthia's choking heart turned over and was in her breast again. She tumbled out of the car before it stopped and ran to him.

"Peter! It's mother. Don't you know me?"

Then the house spilled them all, like figures out of a box. They came by french windows and through doors. There had never been so many. And yet it was only her own family.

Mother! Mother! They surrounded her, drawing her back to them, claiming her. Carey was somewhere but outside the group. No, he was only getting the luggage out of the compartment, her bags and his own. Why did she feel like this?

Chester, who drove the little bright car, was there, close to Vera and after a moment he went to help and then they were all inside the dim, gray green living room with

The Fellowship Of Prayer

Can It Be Done? "But I say unto you—love your enemies—" Matthew 5:44. Read Matthew 5:43-48. I Corinthians 13.

Jesus has asked of his followers few more difficult things but he believed that love is the only way to end old feuds and begin a new order. Hatred could do no more than breed new hatreds. Why not try love?

There is no right English word for New Testament "love." Ours is too domestic or too sentimental or too romantic or too entirely emotional. New Testament "love" is made of the rosy glow of late afternoon warming us.

"Mother, why didn't you let us know?"

"Mother, did you drive all the way home?"

And Edris, the fastidious. "Mother, you're dirty." As if this could happen to Cynthia.

It was the moment. Nobody looked at Carey but they knew about him. It was in their faces, slowly retreating, growing rigid, stiffening against him.

on my car. I can't seem to free up the shaft, even though I have used penetrating oil. What would you suggest? H. N. K.

A. You will probably find that the first idle mechanism is preventing the choke from closing. Take this apart and examine for roughness of the cam surface.

Q. Does it make any difference whether the positive or negative side of the battery is grounded? J. L. B.

A. This has been a question for many years, the trend being to ground the positive side of the battery. However, the electrical system will work either way provided the generator and starter-motor are grounded the same as the battery. If the battery is grounded on its positive side these two electrical units must also have their positive side grounded.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of The Gettysburg Times and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

Second Marriage

By EVELYN MURRAY CAMPBELL

YESTERDAY: Nothing mattered now to Cynthia but Carey. Home, children, business were things in her past. Carey was the present and future. Cynthia is startled however, when Carey asks where shall they live. She had thought to fit him into her life, not hers into his. For the moment the problem is passed off as Carey shrugs, "All that will take care of itself."

Chapter 6
Four days before Cynthia's holiday was to end Anne got a telegram calling her back to Chicago. She was half annoyed, half pleased. "It's no use to keep this place open." She was packing all her clothes pretending to be sorry. "It just isn't my summer in Wisconsin."

"Anne, I owe you the loveliest summer I ever had."
Anne burst out laughing. "What did I tell you? I love that. But in a way perhaps you do. So I'll put in my first claim now. Could you possibly close the cottage so that I wouldn't have to come back to this deadly place?"

Cynthia could and would. Later, she and Carey took Anne to the train as they had done before. When her handkerchief fluttered its final farewell and the pines took over the scene, Carey turned to her and said:

"Shall we get married before dinner or afterward?"

They looked at each other and knew that they could not bear to part again even for a little while. An hour later they were Mr. and Mrs. Carey Winslow.

"And now—"
His ring was on her finger, only a cheap little ring from the general store, but Cynthia thought it was beautiful. The one she had worn so long was white gold and was in her bag. It would belong to Vera.

The sun was low and a cool breath came from the shimmering lake. The island looked like something dropped and lodged against a wave. There was a boat.

"Shall we go over?" he asked very simply and she nodded. There could be no other place where they would be so alone.

He brought blankets from a cache in the rocks and she knew for the first time that he had slept on the island sometimes. It was all in the same casual way as if having her there was the end of a long day. There were some stores left from breakfasts and they ate with paper plates on their knees and the fire scorched their faces. But now it was not fun; it was life.

Then suddenly it was night in the way night comes to a lake in the trees. The tarpaulin was taut over their heads and the fire went to embers at their feet.

Carey held her tightly in his arms and she hid her face in the pine pillow and presently they slept.

Cynthia wore a blue handkerchief tied peasant fashion under her chin and her nose felt like a ripe plum and probably looked worse, she thought ruefully Carey needed a dim, gray green living room with

The Fellowship Of Prayer

Can It Be Done? "But I say unto you—love your enemies—" Matthew 5:44. Read Matthew 5:43-48. I Corinthians 13.

Jesus has asked of his followers few more difficult things but he believed that love is the only way to end old feuds and begin a new order. Hatred could do no more than breed new hatreds. Why not try love?

There is no right English word for New Testament "love." Ours is too domestic or too sentimental or too romantic or too entirely emotional. New Testament "love" is made of the rosy glow of late afternoon warming it.

"Mother, why didn't you let us know?"

"Mother, did you drive all the way home?"

And Edris, the fastidious, "Mother, you're dirty." As if this couldn't happen to Cynthia.

sterner stuff. It is an ethical purpose. As near as it may be, it is a glowing and creative good will and it has a supreme creative power. Evil wills work evil and rejoice in it. Good will works for right human relationship and has room in it for the well-being even of enemies.

It has a divine power to redeem otherwise hopeless situations and transform all our dealings with others. Jesus made a commandment of it, trusted its all-conquering power, illustrated it in his every word and deed and died on the Cross to proclaim its redemptive power. Yes, if this is love we can love our enemies. There is no other way to end enmity.

Prayer: O God, who has included all thy commandments in the one commandment of love, so establish us in goodwill toward all men and nations, that the way of Jesus Christ may control and redeem all our doings. In His name whose Life was Love. Amen.

on my car. I can't seem to free up the shaft, even though I have used penetrating oil. What would you suggest? H. N. K.

A. You will probably find that the fast idle mechanism is preventing the choke from closing. Take this apart and examine for roughness of the cam surface.

Q. Does it make any difference whether the positive or negative side of the battery is grounded? J. L. B.

A. This has been a question for many years, the trend being to ground the positive side of the battery. However, the electrical system will work either way provided the generator and starter-motor are grounded the same as the battery. If the battery is grounded on its positive side these two electrical units must also have their positive side grounded.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of The Gettysburg Times and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

MONDAY, TUESDAY
A thrilling story laid in the squalid settings of London's East End is told in "None But the Lonely Heart" in which Cary Grant is starred with Ethel Barrymore in an equally important featured role. Their portrayals are challenging. Cary Grant is Ernie Mott, a shiftless ne'er-do-well, and Ethel Barrymore is his mother, who keeps a dingy little second-hand shop.

Ernie is sickened and embittered by the poverty and misery in his life. Seeing no hope of ever escaping, he just drifts idly, cadging here and there, and spending most of his time in the nearby tawdry Fun Fair. Here he falls in love with the cashier, although he knows a little musician who has always been in love with him.

Finally tiring of her son's shiftlessness, Ma Mott orders him out of the home, but before he leaves, he learns from a neighbor that his mother is suffering from an incurable disease. This stuns him as nothing else could, and he decides to stay and help her.

WEDNESDAY
"Brazil" is a picture with the sparkling gaiety of the great South American capitol for which it is titled—swept by the romance of Tito Guizar and blonde Virginia Bruce—and with the spectacular dancing of Veloz and Yolanda.

An amusing story by Richard English places Virginia Bruce in Rio de Janeiro as an American writer in search of local color for a book. She becomes the embarrassed victim of mistaken identity in a romance with Tito Guizar, who makes the most of the situation. Posing as a native guide, when he is actually Brazil's leading musical composer, he keeps the demure visitor from the States in a mental furor which is soothed by his music and eventually by his love.

Errol Flynn, who portrays the role of a paratrooper captain in his latest film, "Objective, Burma."

An exciting and thrilling tale of American paratroopers somewhere in northeast India is told in Warner Brothers' "Objective, Burma," which stars Errol Flynn.

The story tells of a party of 50 or more paratroopers who are flown 150 miles back of the Jap lines in order to knock out a Jap radar station which has been hampering Allied air activities. The attack on the station and the hazardous return trip on foot is thrillingly told in the film.

Supporting Flynn in the cast are William Prince, George Tobias, Henry Hull, William Price, James Brown and Frank Tang.

"WASHED OUT" OF OCS: DECORATED

Louisville, Ky., March 10 (AP)—A 24-year-old wounded sergeant, whom the Army wouldn't make a commissioned officer, has declined to accept a medal for "leadership under fire."

He is Sgt. Joseph Kusala of Waterbury, Conn., a patient in an army hospital here, his right arm broken and partly paralyzed by a shell fragment.

He wrote a letter to Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, terming the award of the Bronze Star medal "an ill conceived sop to my conscience."

Kusala related the officer candidate school at Ft. Benning, Ga., "washed me out" as officer material on the contention he "lacked the qualifications of a leader."

Says Officers Fled
Overseas, he continued, he led an assault against enemy positions when two officers deserted their men and "fled in terror" in the face of fire.

He said he and his group knocked out four German pillboxes and isolated a fifth, taking more than 50 prisoners. It was in connection with this incident that he received the Bronze Star.

The veteran painfully typed the 2,500 word letter to Gen. Marshall with his left hand. He is an honor graduate of Columbia university and a former photographer's model.

In an interview, he said most of the commissioned officers in the armed services are "brave and efficient."

Flashes Of Life

BARKING BANK

Penn Yan, N. Y., (AP)—"Baron," seven-and-a-half year old English setter pet of Dr. Lyndon W. Potter, veterinarian, has been serving as a canine blood bank for six years.

BETTER THAN GOLD

Lockport, N. Y. (AP)—Edward Brand, Buffalo refused to take any money for speaking before the Lockport Industrial club. He jokingly said he would prefer cigarettes, butter or meat.

After the meeting, the arrangements committee presented him with a carton of cigarettes, a pound of butter and roast of beef.

Try sprinkling a bit of nutmeg on buttered cauliflower.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, March 10 (AP)—John J. Anthony, who ran the discontinued good will program on MBS Sunday nights, is returning to that network with his human relations series on March 19. But it will not bear a "good will" listing, as that title is owned by WMCA of New York, which is not carrying the series.

Instead of 45 minutes in one block, the new program, using at least two guests each day, will be split into five 15-minute sections, Mondays through Fridays. It will go on at 1:45 p. m.
